

November is National Family Engagement Month!

As a District we want to celebrate our parents during the month of November for Family Engagement Month. Parents are their child's first teachers and therefore impact the level of achievement of every child. We will encourage our parents to take the PLEDGE and commit to learning new strategies, sharing talents of their families and those in their community, and getting connected with various apps and websites to increase their child's achievement.

The Office of Federal Programs in collaboration with various departments throughout the district invite you to join the District's celebration for National Family Engagement Month by attending events throughout the month of November. To kick off the celebration, the district is hosting several Parent Academy Café's on November 7th and November 8th, 2018.

About National Family Engagement Month: The month of November is celebrated as Family Engagement Month to recognize the contributions of families across the nation and to encourage schools to raise awareness of the important roles parents play in a child's education. Family Engagement Month highlights the many opportunities available for educators, families, students and community members to engage in partnerships with the goal of improving student academic achievement. Each year, schools and communities across Georgia strengthen and celebrate family engagement throughout the month of November. Interpreters will be provided.
